incredible trip. The independent hotel brand partnered with private jet operator Bucketlist Xperiences to pull off the extravagant around-the-world odyssey.

The 17-night adventure will cover seven countries aboard a custom private plane. The trip kicks off on Oct. 6, 2026, with an exclusive Marina Bay celebration and a stay at the Fullerton Bay Hotel in Singapore before moving on to India, Rwanda, Kenya, Greece, and Morocco. The trip then wraps up with a stay at The Londoner hotel in London's West End complete with a subterranean wellness sanctuary and rooftop dining.

The "experience delivers rare adventures with personalized service, crafted to feel effortless, memorable, and truly legacy-defining," Lindsey Ueberroth, the CEO of Preferred Hotels & Resorts, said in a statement.

The incredible excursions include gorilla trekking in Rwanda, sailing around Santorini on a private luxury yacht, and experiencing traditional tea with local families in Morocco. Even more alluring than the classic bucket list activities are the exclusive experiences that aren't available to average travelers: attending the recreation of a royal wedding celebration in India, a private volcanic wine tasting in Greece, and a visit to an artisan's atelier closed to the public in Marrakesh.

And travelers won't be fighting over elbow room—each passenger will enjoy their own lie-flat seat and dine on personalized onboard dishes. Throughout the weeks-long journey, the trip's staff will make sure guests' every want and whim is attended to from luggage transfers to personalized souvenirs.

Although the trip involves crossing several borders, travelers won't find themselves twiddling their thumbs waiting for customs thanks to private VIP immigration processes.

A professional photographer will also be along for the journey, ensuring every magnificent memory is preserved while guests stay living in the moment.

All those incredible experiences do come at a price—$133,500 per person, to be exact. On top of the trip itself, participants will also receive 1 million I Prefer points worth at least 10 nights of hotel stays, plus titanium status in the loyalty program.

Space is limited to 25 couples (including family or friends), with a single supplement available on request.
