To meet the growing demand for private and secluded getaways, Preferred Hotels & Resorts, the world's largest independent brand, has announced the launch of WHERE NEXT? Buyouts – the second phase of its global WHERE NEXT? campaign. Whether they want to escape to a Bermudan beach retreat or a legendary Lake Como resort, travelers can now select buyout options inclusive of entire floors, wings, or even full property takeovers at more than 135 independent luxury properties around the world, all well–suited for a variety of occasions ranging from long–awaited family reunions to get–togethers with friends, celebrations, and business meetings.

"Our global sales team has fielded more requests over the last six months for partial or entire hotel buyouts than ever before, so we launched WHERE NEXT? Buyouts to fuel inspiration among travelers and our loyal I Prefer guests while providing them with information on each of the tailored hotel options available to them," said Alison McDermott, Executive Director of Global Merchandising and Marketing for Preferred
